NEXT WEEK'S READINGS

First Reading: Ecclesiastes 1:2, 2:21-23

"Vanity of vanities." Sometimes we may work for wealth, wisdom and knowledge only to discover that it has been left for some one who did not toil for it. The offering of our work, fatigue and pain, if not for God, can also be a kind of vanity.

Second Reading: Colossians 3:1-5, 9-11

Paul urges us to seek what is good and from God, encouraging us to put our minds on the spiritual. He reminds us that, as Christians, we have died with Christ and are hidden with Christ until his glory is once again revealed. We are all one in Christ.

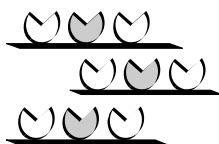

Gospel: Luke 12:13-21

On being requested to settle a question of inheritance, Jesus heeds us to beware of all covetousness because our life does not consist on the wealth of possessions. Through the lesson of a parable Jesus reinforces this teaching, explaining that those who store up the treasures of wealth and possessions are not the richest in God's eyes.

MARIST MISSIONS

This Sunday at all the Masses, the Marist Fathers will be asking for donations to help them continue their life-long commitment and work in their missions in the Southwestern Pacific, Africa, Asia and South American. There are nearly 230 priests and brothers working in "bush stations", teaching in schools and seminaries and ministering to the poor, oppressed and contributing to the development of people for a better society and a strong local Church. Contributing to the Marists will help them in their mission of witness to the Gospel, service to the needy and helping the local Church to build a strong base for its future. We hope that you will be as generous as your means allow.

Food Pantry

The Food Pantry will distribute food between 2PM and 3PM on Saturday, August 7th & 28th. We continue to have a higher than normal turnout of individuals coming to our food pantry. At this time, tuna, soup and sauce for pasta are needed. Thank you for your ongoing support.

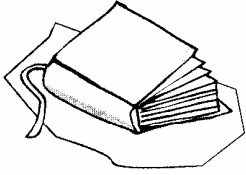

PRO-LIFE QUOTE

A Turkish study by Dr. Vahit Ozmen and colleagues found (as other studies had done previously) a statistically significant increased risk factor for breast cancer for women who have undergone an induced abortion. In this study the increased risk was 66%. In addition to that study, there were two other studies published last year that also matter of factly listed induced abortion as a risk factor for breast cancer. However, the study which created the most "buzz" in the popular press was also published in April 2009 in the journal Cancer, Epidemiology, Biomarkers and Prevention. In the section under "Results" the authors stated: "In analyses of all 897 breast cancer cases (subtypes combined), the multivariate-adjusted odds ratios for examined risk factors were consistent with the effects observed in previous studies. Specifically, older age, family history of breast cancer, age, induced abortion, and oral contraceptive use were associated with an increased risk for breast cancer." Yet it wasn't these findings that created the "buzz." The "buzz" was caused because one of the authors was Louise A. Brinton, who is in the Division of Cancer Epidemiology and Genetics at the National Cancer Institute (NCI). This was the same Louise Brinton who was a leader of the NCI's 2003 Workshop on Early Reproductive Events and Breast Cancer Risk, the workshop that had concluded that there was soooooo NOT a link between abortion and breast cancer that there should not be any more studies done on the subject.
